HUDSON RIVER

By C. E. T. Scharps

Motorists light lamps to-day, 8:28 p. m. Towns and villages should be as careful as persons of the impression they make on the casual visitor. A motoring friend calls attention, for inthe sort of signs he observed on the way. He kept in his mind one place-Greenwich, N. Y .- because at the entrance to town on the main road was a sign, "Greenwich Welcomes You," | at the exit another marked "Thank You." Motorists who do any considerable amount of touring will recall having run across one or two such signs in one section or another. But the fact that this motorist remembered Greenwich, and recalls only a few Russellites' Plea for Bail other towns passed through, helps to show the sort of impression the signs show the sort of impression the signs made on him.

A warning to drive slowly, under penalty of heavy fine by the Selectmen, signboarded without the name of the town appearing, is the thing usually found. No man who greeted visitors with a growl and a threat could expect to get along well in the world. The pleasant greeting and farewell get a man much further in the world. Why, then, isn't it a good thing for towns and villages? A man is more likely to stop in a town where the approach is pleasant. From a commercial point of view, the affable greeting is the best investment, for it makes the automobilist want to "light and feed."

Have you noticed, too, that the pleasant towns are better kept up than the grouch towns? The National Automobile Dealers'

Association will have a meeting to-day in Washington with the War Industries Board, presumably with an idea to telling the board how disastrous the effects of shutting off passenger car effects of shutting off passenger car production after January 1 would be on the members of the association and the other dealers in the United States who make up the 25,000 men so classified. It is, of course, clear that greater hardships would be worked upon the retailers of automobiles by such a ruling than upon the factories. The manufacturers can go into war work to make up for the loss on passenger car business. But the dealers cannot so well get into other lines, especially as their stores and garages are not adaptable to other businesses.

Although there is obviously less interstate motor car touring than is usual, still a fair number of out-oftown cars are observable in the streets every day. Yesterday, for instance, cars with Kentucky, Indiana, Missouri, Ohio and Illinois licenses were around
